Discussion Sections After Break

For the rest of the semester we will be doing discussion sessions via Zoom. We will host them like the usual class schedule. You can tune in to whichever is convenient, though if you can tune into your usual time we would prefer this.

We will discuss problems as usual, but we will not have in class work time, the questions will be posted ahead of time of Prof. Davis' website. We encourage you to look at them before class.

To access the zoom meetings: On Canvas go to the homepage for this class, after in the list that contains "Announcements, Assignments, etc." click on "Zoom" there will be regularly occurring Zoom meetings titled "Desmond 8:30am Tuesday discussion" (for example), click on the relevant one.

For those who can't attend: we will record the discussions and upload them to Canvas after class so you can view them at your convenience. If you have questions for me please use Piazza or email if it's personal. We want to be available to all of you regardless of changes in your circumstances.

Some Zoom rules:
1) Please keep your mics muted unless you speak.
2) Please be mindful of public chat usage. if people's questions are buried we can't answer them. Don't repeat your questions, don't bring up off topic subjects, etc.
3) Please be judicious about questions. You can use your mic to speak, or you can ask me a question through chat, just like you would ask in class, but because it may be harder for us to respond to questions fluidly (in particular chat questions) please keep questions on topic and clear. For example: if I'm working a problem don't interrupt ask me about something in the syllabus.

As the semester progresses we would love to get feedback about your experience with this so don't hesitate to reach out.

Regarding Privacy: When discussion starts you should see an alert reminding you it's going to record, if for whatever reason this makes you uncomfortable you don't have to participate or you can participate with no mic/video. We will post the recordings on canvas for all of you to watch. You do not have permission to share, edit, or in anyway reproduce these recordings. If you download them to your computer you should delete them when you're done using them and you should not share them with anybody. These videos are strictly for your personal benefit while enrolled in this class.
